

Dr. Lars Ekman, Senior Expert, Swedish Transport Administration

Dr. Lars Ekman has a background as researcher at Lund University. The research focused on road safety evaluation applied on pedestrians and bicyclists. Dr. Ekman has also for a long time been involved in international collaboration in the field of road safety both on a European level with CEDR, the organisation of European national road administrations, and at the international arena. At present Dr. Ekman is a road safety expert at the Swedish Transport Administration with special emphasis on road safety countermeasures.